Why our vegies taste great

- We don't use animal manures. Some organic farmers use composted feedlot manures and composted cotton trash. We choose not to.
- We have no cattle on the property these days. Instead about 2/3 of our 350 acres is devoted to wildlife habitat, providing homes for the birds and critters who look after our pest management.
- We have been registered Land for Wildlife for the last 20 or so years. We are encouraging natural regeneration by not grazing or burning and have a wonderful patch of remnant softwood scrub on the farm where thousands of school children have been able to get up close and personal with nature. Being on Paradise Road it's aptly named "A Touch of Paradise".
- Our super fertile soils are made up of 2 parent rocks - unique in the world.
- Our underground water is clean and drinkable having originated in the Mount Mistake rainforest area of the Main Range National Park.
- Our paddocks are regularly spelled under a green mulch crop, some for 2 years or more. We also grow only one crop per paddock per year and rotate crops between paddocks.
- We don't sell seconds and most of our products are harvested one day and leave by refrigerated truck to market the next day. It makes us happy to see top quality produce leave the farm nice and fresh for you to enjoy!!
